

No. 1 knowledge-intensive food ecosystem

The Netherlands is an agrifood powerhouse, world's number 2 exporter of food products and home to world's number 1 food and agriculture university in Wageningen. Foodvalley, located in East Netherlands, tops the list of appealing investment regions for many Agri-Food innovators worldwide. Foodvalley has an ideal mix of multinational companies, research institutes, small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) and startups.

East Netherlands: a highly innovative agrifood cluster

"In 2050, more than 9 billion people need 70% more food than is currently being produced. This calls for a fundamental adjustment of the current food system. It is not possible for one company to achieve this adjustment, but requires close cooperation. The move to Wageningen is therefore a logical step. By being an active part of the Wageningen Foods ecosystem, we have access to international talent and are able to develop new ways of cooperation with the WUR, knowledge centres, other companies, the authorities, NGOs and with start-ups, to jointly ensure that sustainable foods become the norm and that sustainable and nutritious food is accessible to all."

Paul Polman,
CEO Unilever

"We chose Wageningen because of the proximity of Food Valley and other research institutes and facilities. Here we can develop products that are particularly suitable for the European market."

Yuzaburo Mogi Honorary,
CEO & Chairman of the Board at Kikkoman
